

5 New Organizational Waves That Will Dramatically Change Leadership in 2017

How to Ready Your Team to be Adaptable, Aligned & Engaged

In an age where any business or institution may be “Uberized” overnight, major shifts in the way organizations are formed, operated and lead will accelerate in 2017. From “digital first” strategic initiatives to concerns about knowledge retention and transfer, leaders will need to be prepared to develop adaptability and maintain trust within their workforce. These major strategic shifts will impact everyone.

In this highly interactive session, the 5 major waves of organizational change will be examined along with the impacts and specific prescriptions for how leadership must evolve to be relevant in both a new operating environment and to a new generation of employees with higher demands for autonomy.

Key takeaways:

1. Examine the big 5 of organizational shifts- digital first business structure, intrapreneurship, customer centricity, knowledge transfer and adaptability mindset.
2. Explore new leadership structures and models that are being used for both operational and workforce effectiveness.
3. Learn how to fast track alignment and engagement of the entire team to tap their contextual IQ and buy-in for change.
4. Develop your customized business case for organizational leadership evolution for your own company with metrics and ROI.

Presenters

Scott Hamilton, CEO, Nextworks Strategy, President,
Executive Next Practices Institute

Debbie Nix, VP, Human Resources & Risk Management,
Covenant Care

Tickets: $75

Webster students and ENP Annual Members attend free

Register at <https://feb24-webster.Eventbrite.com>

WHEN

February 24, 2017
8:30-10:30 AM
Doors open at 8 AM

WHERE

Webster Irvine
Room 202
32 Discovery
Irvine, CA

YOUR HOST

Scott Hamilton, CEO,
Nextworks Strategy,
President, Executive
Next Practices Institute

Scott Hamilton is a globally noted business leader in the area of board, executive and organizational performance from entrepreneurial ventures to the Fortune Global 500. Hamilton is the co-founder and CEO of NextWORKS Strategy™, a team of top industry thought leaders that assist companies turn strategy into unified, positive action. NextWORKS offers unique, “next practice” methods and programs to help boards, executive teams, individuals and their organizations (for profit and nonprofit) build the internal organizational capability needed to motivate, innovate, execute and sustain extraordinary results.